(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

BASEBALL GROUND, BOSTON, Sept. 17.—This was another of our sultry afternoons, just right to timber up a ball-player or a race horse. Curry and Powers were again in attendance. Sanders in the box for Philadelphia and Radbourne for Boston.

There were 4,000 people present.

The batting order:

BOSTON. PHILADELPHIA.

Richardson, 1. f. Wood, 1. f.

Kelly, 2. f. Schriver, 2. f.

Nash, 3. b. Myers, 3. b.

Brothers, 4. b. Thompson, 4. f.

Quinn, 5. f. Fozzard, 5. f.

Smith, 6. f. Farrar, 6. f.

Radbourne, 7. f. Sanders, 7. f.

First Inning.—Richardson went out at first, Kelly assisting. Kelly flew out to Thompson.

Nash sent a beauty to left center.

Brothers reached first on Myers's fumble, but was put out at second on Johnson's hit to shortstop. No runs.

Wood made a scientific hit and was safe at first. Schriver was given his base. Gangel made a superb throw to Smith, catching Wood napping. Myers was given first.

Thompson made three tremendous swings at the ball, but failed to connect. Gangel had a record hit, the runners going to third and second. Mulvey fouled out to Gangel. No runs.

Second Inning.—Quinn and Smith gave easy outs on the first two pitched balls. Gangel hit an easy one to pitcher that was fumbled. He then went out at second on Radbourne's hit to Mulvey. No runs.

Fozzard launched a fast ball that hit Radbourne's left hand, bounding into the air. Quinn would never have got the runner, although the ball was in his territory. Smith was on base, however, and Fozzard was out.

Farrar and Sanders were given first. Hallman got a lucky hit, a slow one to Quinn. The latter fumbled Wood's hit and Farrar, who rubbed Schriver flew out to Richardson and Myers, with three on bases, hit an easy one to Radbourne. One run.

Third Inning.—Richardson went out at first, Kelly performed the safe stunt act. Nash sent a beauty to center that Fozzard strangled. Kelly third out, attempting to steal second. No runs.

Thompson hit one down the foul line to right field. Dan Brothers took Powers to his foul. The remark cost Dan $10.

THE HAPPY GIANTS.

Their Spirits Unsubdued by Rain at Washington.

Though It Causes the Postponement of To-Day's Game.

Mutrie and Ewing Flooded with Congratulatory Messages.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Rain prevented the champions from taking another fall out of the Washingtons to-day, but all the wet weather in the world could not dampen the spirits of Mutrie's coming two-time winners.

There is not a happier lot of men living to-day than the Giants, and every man of them now feels sure of the pennant for this season.

Congratulatory messages have been pouring in upon Mutrie and Ewing, and the lack of every player suffers from the well meant but too heartily given pats and slaps of enthusiastic friends.

Gen. Arthur Dixwell, the well-known crank, sends this message:

HOTEL BRUNSWICK, BOSTON.

JAMES MUTRIE: We are not the people to be Three cheers for New York.

Another crank says:

To James Mutrie:

Life is worth living. I'm proud to be on the same team with you.

And yet another:

Back to New York.

That flag and I will arrange a testimonial on your return home worthy of the boys' gal' at fight.

CHAS. H. BENTLEY.

This last telegram from Mr. Burnham, manager of the Star Theatre, calls to mind the benefit given to the Giants last year, which Mr. Burnham so admirably managed.

This morning, at the invitation of Col. Day, the players and newspaper men on the trip took a drive to Arlington Heights and visited the National Cemetery there.

President Day, John Ward and Ed Crane made the journey on horseback.

Hatfield took advantage of his knowledge of history to expatiate upon an incident which, according to him, occurred in Revolutionary times; but Bill Brown rudely interrupted the narrator and caused him to relapse into silence by making a great show of interest.

"Hatfield, what club were you playing with at that time?"

There will be but one game played to-morrow, the weather ever so fair.

TWO-YEAR-OLDS BRING BIG PRICES.

Col. Bruce Auctions Off Ex-Jockey Walker's String at Gravesend.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, Sept. 17.—Previous to the racing at Gravesend to-day Col. S. D. Bruce sold, in the paddock, the horses in training belonging to the ex-colored jockey William Walker. The good ones brought big prices, while the "no goods" could not be given away.

Lot one was the two-year-old colt Phoenix, by Mr. Pickwick, a son of the famous English stallion Hermit, out of Bonnie Wood, for which Mr. Casanoff paid $5,000.

J. Conley paid $2,100 for the two-year-old colt Hermit, by Hermit, out of Sunbeam.

L. Martin paid $1,750 for the two-year-old colt Extravagance, by Spendthrift, out of independent.

Andrew Thompson paid $2,000 for B. B. Million, by Ten Broeck, out of Maggie H.

Thompson also paid $750 for the two-year-old filly Mabel Glenn, by Hindoo, out of Calphurnia.

"No accounts," said, the three-year-old bay gelding Wabasha, by Falsotto, was sold for $100 to S. Ayres, and the three-year-old colt gelding Spendthrift, by Spendthrift, to J. Van Brunt for $140.

There were no bids for Tip Top, Ten Hook and Gertrude and Miss Charnier were sold privately.

THE ELECTRICAL EXECUTION CASE.

Arguments Before Judge Day at Auburn To-Day.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The Kemmler case came up before Judge S. Edwin Day this morning.

Bourke Cockran, of New York, spoke until 1.30 o'clock.

He denounced the Electrical Execution law and said that the evidence taken by Referee Becker, of Buffalo, showed that such an execution would be a cruel and unusual punishment.

The court, at the conclusion of Mr. Cockran's remarks, adjourned until 2 p. m., when Attorney General Felt began to argue the State's side of the case.

quickly his mind had divined the thought of the officer.

Throwing a leg over a table, his hand reaches outward, he raises a book and reads it.

"Holy Bible," that's a good book for the reporters to follow," he says, with an effort to be cheery and blithesome.

No one of the half dozen scribes replying, the pleasant and easy hard lines relax and rest themselves on the old face of the young railroad wrecker and a little sigh escapes from the bosom which ought to be swelling with the joyous exuberance of innocent, unsophisticated youth.

ABOUT THE FORGERY STORY.

"How about that forgery story again, Mr. Ives?" asks a reporter.

"It will be brought out to-day, I am sure," he replies, knitting the brow which should be as smooth as that of a marble Adonis.

Then the lawyers come in, Brooke and Fullerton, looking weary and worried, and they fall to whispering with the young reveal whose defenders they are.

THE RECORDED TORTURE.

The Recorder opens court at 11.05 and
